What is Anti-Money Laundering Supervision?

Members and IFA member firms providing accountancy services, trust and company services or related services such as tax advice, audit or insolvency by way of business to the public must comply with the requirements of the Money Laundering Regulations 2017 and must be supervised for compliance with these regulations by a supervisory authority.

The IFA automatically supervises member firms under MLR 2017. Firms that provide trust or company services as part of their main accountancy practice, and which meet the definition of a member firm, will be supervised by IFA for all their work. In Section B (practising certificate application) of the application form we require you to indicate who your AML supervisory body is if you are already supervised. We reserve the right to communicate with your AML supervisory body to confirm that you are supervised by them for AML.

If your firm is not yet supervised by the IFA but meets the definition of an IFA member firm as outlined in the IFA bye-laws, the IFA will make contact with you in order to act as your AML supervisory body. All partners will need to pass a fit and proper check and the prescribed firm supervision fee paid before the IFA can supervise the firm for AML.
